MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Large fields of ice and enormous icebergs are still in the line of navigation taken by vessels from this country to England.

Silk cultivation is rapidly increasing in this country, and the results already obtained give rise to the belief that before long an article can be manufactured here equal to any that is imported.

The effect of the Egyptian muddle is distinctly felt in the markets for East India merchandise. The fear that the Suez Canal may be damaged has imparted a firmer feeling in shellac, cutch, etc., while gum arabic, which is an Egyptian product, has advanced from six to eight cents per pound.

American shredded codfish is classified by the German custom-officers as woodenware, because it was packed in thin wooden boxes, and because the duty on woodenware is higher than the duty on fish. For a like reason sugar-cured hams covered with linen cloth are classed as fine linen; emery powder in tin canisters must pay as ironware; and spirits in bottles protected by silken covers are taxed as silk goods. That is the German idea of protecting home industries without having the obnoxious reputation of being a high tariff country.

AGRICULTURAL ITEMS.

All the nutritive value of the corn crop must be stored during the growing season, rarely lasting more than one hundred days. If corn is early stunted, either by weeds or cold weather, it never fully recovers.

A successful chicken raiser says that he always feeds his hens among his currants, and the leaves are consequently always free from worms, and other bushes not thus treated near by were stripped of their foliage.

In the very hottest days it will pay to keep milch cows in dark stables during the heat of the day, bringing them some green feed, and turning them out to eat and drink night and morning. In this way the annoyance from flies will be greatly moderated.

Another crises seems imminent in Ireland. Incessant rains and cold weather threaten utter destruction to what promised to be one of the finest of harvests ever reaped in Ireland. It is to be hoped that famine may not be added to the other ills which Ireland must bear.

A use has at last been found for the Canada thistle. A shepherd in South Australia declares that they furnish more and better food for sheep during a protracted drought than any plant that grows. The flower buds are eaten by lambs in preference to any kind of grass.

Pigs that are shut in pens during the Summer should have some green food. Weeds of any kind are good, but pig-weed is best, and sweet corn cut up with the green ears is best of all. The sweet in the corn stalks is very fattening, and better for growing pigs in Summer than corn, grain or meal.

A quick and effectual method to destroy plantain and other weed pests on lawns is to cut the plant off at the crown, and drop on the top of the root two or three drops of kerosene. The lawn will not be defaced by digging, and the work is at once and completely done.

A small worm is seriously injuring the bean crop in some sections. It eats the leaves while young and tender, and the cold, backward season has unduly prolonged its work. As the leaves become old and tough the injury ceases. This is no relative of the bean weevil, which works in the ripened grain and last season seriously shortened the crop in some places.

Private advices from England of July 5 state, with regard to the fruit crops: "We have plenty of currants and gooseberries, and a fair supply of good strawberries has been enjoyed; but there are few signs of apples, pears and plums. The gale of the last day of April damaged the trees to such an extent that they will hardly recover until next year. The weather has been indifferent for fruit up to the present time." A good market is thus assured for American apples.

A recent English writer gives the following, which suggests a way in which hardy wood-climbers might be made available for window decoration in winter or early spring: "Some years ago, as I was passing through a room used only occasionally, I perceived an odor of fresh flowers that surprised me, as none were ever kept there. On raising the curtain of the east window I saw that a branch of Dutch honeysuckle had found its way between the two sashes at one corner, while growing in the Summer, and had extended itself quite across the window; and on the branch inside there were three or four clusters of well-developed flowers, with the usual accompaniment of leaves, while on the main bush outside there was not yet a leaf to be seen. The flowers inside were just as beautiful and fragrant as if they had waited until the natural time of blooming. Since then I have tried the experiment purposely, and always with the same result." A heavy covering of the ground over the roots of the plants with leaves, and sufficient protection of the stem outside, would allow this method to be practised in quite severe climates.

A good fly-net is a necessity for horses either driven or worked much at this season. Horses protected from flies will do better with half the grain, than those constantly worried.

The use of the mower and reaper has worked a great improvement in the appearance of the fields. In fitting them for these implements stumps and stones have been removed, and the surface made as smooth as possible. On very level or naturally wet land this smoothing process should not preclude the plowing of open furrows to carry off the water. Underdraining does not entirely obviate this necessity, for when the surface of the ground is frozen water cannot go down to the drains.

LIVING BY THEIR WITS.

METHODS OF CITY SWINDLERS.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

The adventure of a reporter with "confidence" men and "banco steerers," who carry on their operations in the vicinity of City Hall Park, published in the Tribune recently, has caused much comment from people doing business in that neighborhood, and many persons have expressed hopes that the publicity given to the operations of the thieves would be the means of driving them to other places. "I know the gang very well," said Coroner Knox, in talking with a Tribune reporter on Saturday, "and I don't see why they are not broken up. I see them about here every day. Why, there they are now."

The Coroner put on his gold-rimmed spectacles and gazed across the street. Leaning on the iron chains that surround the grass plots of the City Hall Park were four men. Two of them carried silk umbrellas to protect them from the rays of the sun. From their position, which was just in front of the Register's Office, the men could watch the crowds that moved along the sidewalk before the Coroner's Office or gathered about the bulletin boards of the newspapers. They were well dressed. One was well built, about forty years of age, with heavy brown chin-whiskers. Another was about sixty years old, and wore a thick gray moustache and carried a cane. He limped slightly. Another was a dapper young man of about twenty years of age, with a rakish look. The fourth member of the gang was tall and erect, with dark moustache and a mole on the left side of his face.

Captain Leary, of the City Hall Police, was asked if he knew the men.

"I don't know their names," said the captain, "but their faces are familiar to me. They are a new gang who have come in here and make the Park and Printing House Square their base of operations. We can't catch them at their tricks, and so we can't stop them coming here. But we know their faces well."

Further inquiry showed that the men were known to many persons about the City Hall. There are six of them, and every day they can be seen sitting on the iron chains in front of the Register's Office. That they have a room or office or "game" in the neighborhood is certain, but just where it is the police of the Fourth Precinct profess not to know. Between City Hall Square and the East River are many large buildings and lodging-houses, honeycombed with little rooms and offices, where a "game" can be carried on in the greatest security. Some idea of the scale on which this system of swindling is carried on in this city can be formed from the fact that about 150 men, the most of whom are well known to the police, make their living at it. From a man who is well informed on the ways and methods of these thieves the reporter gained many important facts. They operate along Broadway from Thirty-fourth street to City Hall Square. The latter place was at one time the favorite rendezvous for these men. About a year ago the police succeeded in breaking up the gang there and driving them away. Some went up town, and others moved to distant cities, where they were not so well known. City Hall Square was temporarily relieved of them. This year, however, there have moved into it the new gang who are mentioned above. They had bad luck at the start, and their leader, "Ike" Vail, one of the cleverest "banco steerers" in the country, was caught in April and brought to trial. Vail pleaded guilty of petty larceny, and the Justice gave him the extreme penalty, one year in the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island. But the thieves were not discouraged and they did not leave the Square. Judging from their dress and appearances, they have been successful there.

Another noted resort for these thieves is the bar-room of "Shang" Draper, the bank burglar, in Sixth avenue, near Twenty-sixth street. Here are to be seen not only the old-timers," but many new faces as well. Among the fraternity are "Joe" Bond, alias "Paper Collar Joe," "Cap" Taylor, "George" Warren, Tibbitts and Thompson, the gold bar swindlers, and "Grand Central Pete," so-called from the station which he most honors with his attentions.

A ball from a pistol broke up a band of three of these men, who, making Broadway, between the Fifth Avenue Hotel and Thirty-fourth street their headquarters, operated with signal success and defied the efforts of the police to arrest them. The leader of this gang was "Charley" Miller. Last winter he was shot and killed in "Dick" Darling's bar-room, in Broadway, by Tracy, the gambler. This broke up the gang, and Miller's two "pals," the "Doctor" and Raymond, left the city, and this summer they are "working" Saratoga. Another noted monte swindler was "Joe" Howe. The City Hall Square was his place of business, and here he drove a thrifty trade. He had an office in Cortlandt street, and pretended to be a real estate broker. He kept in his employment three professional "steerers," whose duty it was to "rope in" the unsophisticated countryman who might have a farm to sell or buy, and to "steer" him into "Joe's" office. One face that is missed from his old haunt about "Shang" Draper's is that of "Ed." Fitzgerald. He was the pride of the banco men and could discuss paintings like a connoisseur. In an unlucky moment, he "steered" the distinguished Massachusetts statesman, Charles Francis Adams, into a Boston "game," and in consequence now lodges and is boarded at no cost to himself in the State Prison at Concord. This is the most famous exploit of the banco men on record and will doubtless go "thundering down the ages." A year ago a noted "game" was carried on in Ann street near Broadway. The police assert confidently that they have broken this up, and also one that flourished in City Hall place.

So numerous did this class of thieves become, and so many people were robbed by them, that at one time a detective was assigned from Police Headquarters to do nothing but watch the confidence men. This detective was for some reason withdrawn from this work last winter, and it is conceded that the recent influx of "steerers" into this city is the result of this relaxed vigilance on the part of the police. The devices employed to "rope in" their victims are numberless. The men work in gangs. Steerer No. 1 meets his man in the street, grasps his hand and exclaims:

"Why, Mr. Jinkins, how are you?"

"My name is not Jinkins."

"Are you not Mr. Jinkins, of Chautauqua?"

"No, I am Mr. Jones, of Rochester."

The thief begs a thousand pardons, and hastens to communicate to Steerer No. 2 the victim's name. No. 2 meets the man and says with much cordiality;

"Why Mr. Jones, how are you? How are the folks in Rochester?

No. 1, who has found out from a banknote the name of a bank president or cashier in Rochester, passes himself off as his son just returned from Europe. He invites Jones to take a drink at a neighboring "bar-room." While the two are hobnobbing, "steerer" No. 3 enters upon the scene, talking loudly of having been swindled out of hundreds of dollars.

"This is the way it was done," he explaines, and throws down three cards and explains the game. Two of the cards are blank, and one has the picture of a baby on it.

"I lost $500 trying to pick out the 'baby,'" he says.

Jones, through curiosity, picks out the "baby" several times. He thinks he is in luck, and is easily inveigled into a den where he manages to lose his ready cash and in some instances an amount in checks in a vain endeavor to pick out the baby. This is the "monte game." A banco cloth has gilt squares upon it numbered, and different figures upon each number. One square is blank. It is called No. 28. The victim draws the numbers from a pack of cards, and when, by varying success, he has been induced to place all his money upon the table, he is sure to draw No. 28, and thereby he loses all of his cash. In addition to these tricks, immigrants are often swindled by these men under the guise of money-changers. They worm themselves into the confidence of rural merchants as drummers. They have in their employ lawyers who negotiate their checks for them. A threat of exposure generally does the work on the nerves of a countryman of family and standing. A few years ago a clergyman was "roped in" in Canal street. These swindlers are well known to all hotel men, who, when they see them about their places in any numbers, generally telegraph to Police Headquarters for assistance in keeping a watch on them.

The swindlers of Chicago never have to ask a man his name. They go to the hotel register, and before they undertake to "rope in" a man they have his whole family history.

Mr. Jotham Johnson, of Durham, is ninety-six years old, but in good health, and as active as most men of seventy. His wife died three years ago, at the age of ninety-two, after living with her husband seventy-two years. Mr. Johnson followed the sea, beginning at the age of seven. He never uses glasses, and he has good natural teeth, as well as a fine head of hair, white and curly.

July 1st, Mr. Corliss, of Wade plantation, an old gentleman 75 years of age, hunted down and shot a bear in Perham, whose skin measured 7½ feet from snout to tail, 6½ feet across the shoulders and hips, and 5½ feet across the narrowest part, and whose carcass was larger than a good sized two-year old heifer. Mr. Corliss has hunted bears ever since he was 17 years of age, and has killed over a hundred.

The Argus says a little girl in Portland, named Hanson, was wounded by a toy pistol a few days ago, and Wednesday was stricken with lockjaw.

The sloop yacht Lily, sunk off Goose Island, last week, was raised, Saturday, and towed to Mere Point. The body of the drowned negro has not been found.

The Portland Press says "The janitor of the Centennial block went out of the building, Tuesday evening, and by mistake locked in one of the tenants. The latter tried the door and failed to get out. Then he undertook to summon the janitor from above by the electric bell. Making a mistake, however, the man rang for 15 or 20 minutes on the telegraph call boxes. When the janitor returned he found the sidewalk crowded with telegraph boys, all trying to get into the building to answer the summons.

Mr. Michael Brady, of Ellsworth, sold his Lexington colt to a Boston party, last week, for nearly $300. There is an active demand for good horses and the price is gradually rising.

Samuel Lurvey, Esq., of Norwood's Cove, met with a sad accident, July 10th. He was repairing a brush fence quite a distance from home. While thus engaged he accidentally cut himself severely with an axe. A piece was slivered off the left ankle bone, and the blade of the axe entered the upper part of the left foot, leaving a bad gash.

The Journal says, recently, an Augusta farmer heard a sharp cackling a long distance off in one of his fields, and far from the house. He followed the cackling up, and there, circling around in a perfectly bewildered manner, and eyeing the sun as though taking observations, he discovered to his astonishment, his favorite Bramah hen, lost. He easily captured the poor biddy, took her in his arms and carried her home. Arriving, he deposited her in front of the hen-house, upon which she set up a joyful cackle.

On this occasion the Parks Hose Company, of Waltham, and the Rescue Hose Company, of Natick, Mass., visited Boothbay, as guests of the Minnehaha. The Augusta Band furnished music for the parade. The American Watch Co.'s Band accompanied the guests. A banquet was furnished the guests by the ladies of Boothbay. There were excursions by the visitors to Squirrel and Mouse Islands. An Islesboro fisherman caught 200 barrels of mackerel in his weir, Sunday night, but the fish broke through and escaped. Three barrels only were saved.

George W. Hatch, of Islesboro, during his leisure hours at sea on a recent foreign voyage, carved with a jack-knife a very elaborate picture frame, to hold two cabinet photographs. The frame consists of about one thousand pieces of wood and is a remarkable specimen of ingenuity and skill in the use of a knife.

Washington.

The "Carrie Belle," a small schooner engaged in freighting edgings from Calais to Eastport, in going up river last Sunday, ran aground on Dog Island Point, and as the tide ebbed away, she slipped off the rocks and capsized. The steamer Spray was sent for and the vessel was towed in and beached.

The Union says, at Machiasport, July 8, Mr. Andrew Steves' girl, seven years old, fell off the wharf into quite deep water. The twin boys of Capt. Edward Small, aged five years, were near her. One of the boys procured a stick, waded near to the girl as he could, and by his aid, after she had sunk once, the child was rescued, other help coming to his relief.

Two dredge boats are now employed in digging out Lubec Channel. The steam tug "M. J. A SUGGESTION TO MR. BARNUM

[Boston Journal]

We have a suggestion to make to the managers of "Barnum's Only Greatest Show on Earth" now performing to admiring and astonished thousands in Maine We do it because the management is most enterprising in its search for and presentation of novelties and because we believe that it is within their power to present to the people of Maine and that portion of the United States outside, the most astonishing, exploits that are possible, exploits, in fact which when performed, will set at defiance all theories regarding the capacity of the human body and the bum intellect for contortions and all the laws of gravitation and overthrow whatever preconceived notions old fogies may have entertained to the effect that one body cannot occupy a half dozen different spaces at one and the same time

Let us proceed to unfold Harris Hasted, Joseph Dane Daniel H Thing, George W Ladd and Thompson H Murch and the dates of a political combination in Maine which has made two diametrically opposed propositions respecting the circulating medium, sometimes called the life blood of commerce but commonly known as money These propositions and declarations are as follows

No 1 That the interests of enterprise and labor call for a circulating medium, consisting of gold and silver and paper all of legal tender and issued and controlled by the Government sufficient in amount to enable the people to do business more upon a cash basis

No 2 Gold and silver and demand notes convertible into and in value equal to specie the money of the Constitution

Gov Plaisted in his variegated political fortune seeking career since 1879, has declared many times in favor of both these propositions On thirteen occasions while in Congress he indorsed No 2 by his votes, and until the Greenback vertigo, which appeared in the election of 1878, convinced him that political preferment could be reached only by adopting No 1 as his creed he declared his undying devotion to sound hard honest money The same may be said of Mr Thing As to Mr Dane as the President of a national bank, he has been supposed to have planted his foot upon No 1 until the very recent Green Back Convention in Portland, when he informed his members that he was in hearty accord with them or words to that effect Now it is easy enough, as we have seen for aleert men like Governor Plaisted to jump from platform No 2 to No 1 but he and his associates have never publicly attempted to stand on both at the same time Again the Greenback end of the combination has declared

To the end that the public debt may be speedily extinguished we favor the immediate appropriation of the surplus coin in the Treasury and the full and unrestricted coinage of gold and silver

A month later the Democratic end of the combination announced the following antagonistic doctrines

Congress is bound to protect the country against the evils of a debased coin and against the greater evils of an excessive issue of paper

It must strike the reader that the latter was prepared as an offset for the former The unrestricted coinage of silver means a debased coin the appropriation of the coin in the Treasury reserved for the redemption of greenbacks to other purposes would make them fiat money, which in any amount is excessive

It is scarcely necessary for us to be to the trouble this hot weather to impress upon the representatives of Barnum a "Greatest Show in the World" the one opportunity this combination affords them to give not only the most wonderful performance ever seen under canvass, but the most remarkable that can ever be seen should circuses continue to flourish until the mountains crumble to plains. If we mistake not it is the veteran showman s only ambition to so completely conquer the world of shows that those who follow him will gnash their teeth in vain for new and greater Jumbos When Mr Barnum shall have secured such rare wizards as Messrs. Hasted, Dane, Thing, Ladd and Murch must be to stand upon both of these platforms at the same time and explain them so that they shall appear eternal harmonies perfection in the circus business will have been reached

When all these most agile gentlemen shall have explained how they can vote in Congress (Mr Plaisted in the Senate and the others in the House) for a bill providing for unlimited silver coinage and against "debased coin," and for as much flat paper money as everybody shall desire to do a cash business, and against an excessive issue of irredeemable paper, the perfection of grand-and-lofty intellectual tumbling and of "now-you-see-it-and-now-you-don't" will be realized The fat woman, the ten-foot giant, the terrible four-tongued woman, the living-man-with-a-live-snake in-his-eye the wooly horse, the giraffe speaking four languages—all these and even greater monstrosities, will pale their ineffectual fires before such a phenomena as that of the double-platformed candidates in their unheard-of feat of harmonizing these hitherto antagonistic creeds. All else were wonders; this performance would be a miracle. And besides, there would be "millions in it." Once known what stars Mr. Barnum had engaged and what miracles they were to perform and all the country down to Texas even would set their faces toward Maine. It would in fact be "The Only Greatest Show on Earth."

TOO THIN.

To-day the leading Independents of Maine are to meet at Portland and prepare the way for an Independent Republican State Convention. It is a hard year for bosses and machine rule. The Maine Independents are keeping their own counsel, and we have no information as to their plans, beyond the statement made by the Portland Advertiser to the effect that they mean business.—Boston Post, July 21.

The proposed conference for the Independent Republican movement has been postponed until Monday next, the same day on which the Fusionists have called their first grand rally It is reported that emissaries have made considerable effort to work up the movement throughout the State, but the result of the work has not transpired. —Portland Associated Press Despatch, July 21

MORE ABOUT PLAISTED

The Advertiser says "General Plaisted advised the Council of 1879 not to allow the result of the election to be changed by any technicalities" This is a "fresh" piece of political information When and where did Plaisted give this advice? Does the Advertiser mean to say that he opposed the count-out? If he did, it must have been in soliloquy, for he never lifted his voice in public against it While honorable Democrats were condemning the crime of the Garcelon Council he did not join in the condemnation He was mute then But later on he took occasion to assail the Supreme Court for its wise and righteous decision That is the position Harris Plaisted held during the controversy Does the Advertiser question this statement? Has it any proof to offer that Plaisted was opposed to the count-out? Did he ever publicly condemn that crime? Did he ever privately condemn it? If so, when? Did he approve or disapprove the opinions of the Court? On which side of the question was his influence cast and his voice heard? If he condemned the action of the Council and approved the action of the Court the people of Maine have hitherto been ignorant of it Will the Advertiser enlighten them on this point?—Portland Press

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION

[Good Templar Record]

In our issue of two weeks ago we penned a few words of warning to the temperance men of Maine relative to the coming campaign. In our article we merely gave our views of the situation, committing no one except ourselves editorially to them The article was very plainly worded so plainly that only the inflamed brain of an excited partisan or profound egotist could mistake the meaning Yet the mistake has been made, and last week the senior editor, while attending Forest City Lodge, of Portland, of which he is secretary, was bitterly assailed by Andrew J Chase, a member of that Lodge. Mr Chase accused him of trying to bring the order of Good Templars into politics (a most absurd charge) showered upon him epithets of indignity, and threatened him with dire vengeance, if he dared to betray the order or support Robie, eulogizing the while Gov Plaisted and ordering his subscription to the Record stopped This was at recess Shortly after recess the editor left, and in his absence the matter was brought up and a committee appointed to draft resolutions of censure because of the publication of that article. We understand that Mr. Chase is chairman of that committee and that he intends to show no quarter Now, friends of temperance, refer to the article we brig of you, and consider well whether or not it is capable of the construction, which this eminently ingenious honest and distinguished temperance advocate puts upon it, or whether there is not a cat under the meal, in short, whether our eloquent friend is not electioneering for Plaisted He soundly berates others for being party men first and temperance men afterward How is it Mr Chase? Isn't it Plaisted first and temperance afterward with you? or is the war cry of the faction which you seem to be seeking to encourage Anything to beat the Republican party," merely another name for "temperance in all things" We hope our brother Templars will not rate us too soundly for daring to express our opinion without consulting A J Chase

JESSE HARPER DECLINES TO TAKE THE STUMP FOR PLAISTED

PORTLAND, July 17th, 1882

Uncle Solon

I saw it announced a short time ago in the Lewiston Enquirer that Jesse Harper, chairman of the Greenback National Committee, would come to this State in August and take the stump for Plaisted. I supposed at the time that this was a lie made out of whole cloth and I wrote to Col Harper to know whether or not the announcement was true It appears that he (Harper) was away from home in Michigan speaking, and the letter was forwarded to him by his wife, and from that State I have received in answer from Col Harper the following letter

P. H GORDON.

BAY CITY, Mich, July 13, 1882.

P. H Gordon

MY DEAR FRIEND —Your letter was forwarded to me by my wife I have written my friend R M. Springer in answer to his letter to me, that I would be in Maine, I thought, in August He wanted me to speak for Solon Chase I told him I would for I am a Greenbacker and don't take any Fusion in mine In haste I am speaking in this State now for a few days

J HARPER.

"The Farmington Chronicle says It is well understood that the recommendation of the Fusionists to have detectives appointed to watch the political management of Republicans in the present campaign, was only done to cover their own tracks, as it has leaked out that the Fusion spies are to be furnished with large sums of money to use as a corruption fund in the interest of reform and the Fusion candidates."

Old Mr. Williamson, formerly Senator Sumner's private secretary, who was arrested in Washington on a charge of stealing valuable papers from the Attorney General's office when he was confidential clerk of Attorney General Williamson, was surprised by a discharge, his prosecution for a penitentiary offence being barred by the statute of limitations. Williamson is about eighty years old, and has been pulled down from an honorable position in society by strong drink.

Apropos to Mr. Dane's remark that he was always proud to stand by the side of Greenbackers, Solon Chase says "a Democrat never was born who would not stand beside Greenbackers to get their votes."

It is estimated that Perry Belmont's election to Congress cost him—beg pardon, his father—$40 000. He is not personally popular in his district, in fact was practically unknown until his August parent came forth, bought off the then incumbent, and thus secured the latter's following for his son. It has prove a pretty expensive toy for Perry, in every way.—Providence Press.

Mr. Barnum is giving the English people cold consolation for the loss of their pet by telling them that the big pachyderm increases the income of his show by from $3,500 to $4,000 a day.

There is some disposition to nominate Senator Kellogg for Congress in the IIId District of Louisiana. The convention does not meet until August 22, and no delegates have as yet been elected. The present Representative, C. B. Darrall, has many supporters also. The District is largely Republican, having given a party majority of nearly 6,000 in 1880.

Mr. Blaine and family are enjoying every minute at their pleasant and generous home in this city The grandeur of Washington and its brilliant society will never wean them from the love of the city and State which they delight to call their home. There is not a pauper in the streets who is known to Mr and Mrs. Blaine that does not receive kindly greeting from them when they come home, and always substantial charity when needed —Kennebec Journal

A gallant policeman in Baltimore has discovered a new terror to prospective fathers-in law by the exercise of the prerogative and duty of his office in preserving the peace when it was threatened in his own person after an elopement This gallant policeman, as he marched up and down his beat with martial air in the uniform and brass buttons that so well became him, with his terror dealing club lightly swinging to his wrist, had attracted the attention of a young lady of fifteen In the vernacular of the street he "made a mash," as it is the good fortune and solace of so many of his fellows to do This culminated in an elopement and clandestine marriage The father not being fascinated like his daughter with the charms of the uniform raised a disturbance and attempted to take his daughter home Whereupon the police man promptly arrested him for disturbing the peace and had him locked up in a cell Had any possibility of further interrupting the honeymoon. This should teach citizens who do not appreciate the pride and protection of a matrimonial alliance with the force that it is a grave error to suppose they can invoke the offices of the law against the embodiment of the law, and that thrice is he armed who can make his quarrel the function of justice A night a reflection in a cell has doubtless convinced him of this solid fact

MALT BEER

EXTRACT.

This Extract makes one of the most delicious summer drinks to use It is refreshing and cooling to the blood after over work, stimulating the digestive organs, increasing the appetite, and if tea and coffee, which are expensive, and also heating to the blood. It is Nature's own stimulant in the hay field, every farmer should have it, as the men can do more work by using the beer, also, for the reason that they do not have to use as much to quench their thirst, as of other drinks, is easily prepared.

The Daily News believes the Porte's an swer to the invitation to send troops is re garded by the government as equivalent to a refusal and that a force will be sent to Egypt without delay

News From Cairo

The Khedive has received the following important news from Cairo Arabi after receiving the Khedive's letter, sent to Yo koub Pasha ordering him to assemble the Notables About seventy or eighty came together and were told by Yokub that the Khedive was now entirely in the hands of the English that he slept every night on board of an English man of war and was providing food for English troops Arabi's Ministers we e said to be all in prison in Alexandria and guarded by English, and the Chamber was therefore asked to give advice as to what should be done Hus sein Edwi, one of the Notables, said that as the Khedive had sold the country to the English he ought not longer be obeyed. Acush Pash declared that he did no believe the statements made A great clamor thereupon arose, and several officers threatened Acush with violence Several other Notables spoke but those favoring the Khedive were afraid to express their view finally a commission was appointed composed of Ali Pasha Mabarrick, Ach med, Meshad, Hassan, Moosack and oth ers, mostly adherents of Arabi, to proceed to Alexandria to inquire into the existing situation

Magistrates Dismissed

The chief magistrates of Sardric Menoo fia and Gahoubia—three out of the seven provinces of Lower Egypt—have been dis missed and replaced by men of Arabi's party In the villages all the Europeans are being brutally murdered, even their native servants being butchered Two Egyptian regiments were tolled off to de fend Damietta and Rosetta The Egyptian authorities join in a half hearted way in the efforts to restore order and punish crimin als They seem anxious that the English should bear all the odium of such measures Among the officers the men composing the entourage of the Khedive are regarded with great suspicion and it may eventually be necessary to arrest several of them for treasonable communication with Arabi It is feared here that the news of the coming of the commission from Cairo will open the door again for to fresh talk, diplomacy, in trigue and procrastination

The Conference

CONSTANTINOPLE July 21 In conse quence of the resolution adopted at yester day s conference, the Dragoman of the Italian legation,informed Said Pasha, pres ident of the council that the conference had noted the Porte s decision to partici pate in their deliberations and invited him to decide whether the conference shall continue to sit at the Italian embassy or be transferred to his residence It is ex pected the Porte will propose a counter scheme, that either a Turkish commission shall accompany the English and French troops, or that the Europeans hold the Suez canal while the Turks operate else where

A Movement of British Troops Anticipated

LONDON, July 21 The Daily Tele graph's Alexandria correspondent says It will not be surprising if Arabi's meas ures against the water supply of Alexan dria lead to an immediate advance of Brit ish troops Major General Allison has telegraphed home for instructions An Arab spy states that the damming of Mah moudieh canal flooded the country with water in places knee deep, making the ground too soft for the movement of the guns A native has just been shot while attempting to fire a house in the centre of the city

The Daily News Port Said correspon dent says 'Arabi, after the bombard ment of Alexandria, spread the report that the English troops had been defeated The conduct of the natives was consequently very insolent The position is very criti cal

The Central News Alexandria despatch says A refugee from Cairo reports that numerous massacres of Europeans took place Monday on the outskirts of that city "Major General Allison will leave here to morrow with troops to blow up the ob structions in Mahmoudieh canal "

Massacres at Cairo

The Times' Alexandria correspondent says he has received a letter from the inte rior in which the report of massacres at Cairo and Damietta are confirmed. At Cabul a family was taken from the railway train and put under the wheels All the employes of the cadastral survey at Tar tah have been killed The official native report of the bombardment of Alexandria said that eight ironclads were sunk; two burned and four captured, and that the latter would be brought to Cairo. The killed at Tartah include two English engi neers named Crowther and Macolan A Sheik and Governor tried to save them but were unable to do so

Sole Delegate

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 21 Assym Pasha, formerly Minister of Foreign Af fairs, has been appointed sole delegate to the conference

Suez Canal.

LONDON, July 21. De Lesseps tele graphed from Alexandria to Paris that im mediate action is necessary, especially to protect the Suez canal, and that awaiting the result of the conferences is ridiculous.

England and France.

PARIS, July 21. Temps announces that England and France have submitted to the conference their proposals relative to the occupation of the Suez canal and will not wait for its decision before proceeding to make active preparations. The French Government will consequently ask the Chamber without delay to pass a vote of credit to defray the expenses of the expe dition of any corps.

The Water Supply

ALEXANDRIA, July 21. The position in regard to the water supply is becoming alarming. There has been a sensible fall of the Mahmoudieh Canal of two inches. Unless more troops arrive soon to enable Gen. Allison to drive Arabi Pasha from the pumping stations the consequences will be terrible. The European cotton factories at Damantond are burned.

The Notables Pronounce the Khedive a Traitor.

ALEXANDRIA, July 21. The Notables, at a meeting in Cairo, have adopted a reso lution declaring the Khedive having violat ed the constitution is a traitor, and have deposed him. They have also issued a proclamation declaring war with Eng land and summoning all good Moslems to fight against her. A pressure is being put on the Khedive to proclaim Arabi Pasha a rebel.

A General Massacre

ALEXANDRIA, July 21. Five hundred soldiers and many Beduins are in Zagazig These have been joined by soldiers and Bedouins from Cairo and no doubt a general massacre has begun.

News of the massacre of Europeans in various parts of Egypt excited great indig nation here, and the delay in taking action is bitterly commented on. Arabi Pasha's proclamation has already effected a marked change in the attitude of populace here.

Servile civility has been exchanged for a sullen and insolent attitude. Arabi's camp is visible from the tower of the house at Ramleh His position on the narrow strip of land flanked by two lakes is very strong Thirty six Europeans have been massacred there by order of the Arabi

Serious Charges

WASHINGTON, July 21 At a meeting of the House Judiciary Committee, to-day a memorial was read from J J P Newell, protesting against the passage of a bill continuing the land grants to the Texas Pacific Railroad on the ground that the passage of the original land grant bill by the Senate in June 1870, and the House in March, 1871 was secured by fraud and bribery He avers that $50 000 in cash and $200,000 first mortgage land grant bonds were raised for division among the Sena tors in consideration for their votes, and $1,000 000 bonds, executed by one of the corporators for guaranteeing the issue of the first mortgage land grant bonds, to be used for similar purposes in the House The memorialist further says arrangements were made with 30 Congressmen to vote for the bill and the books of the Texas Pacific Company will show their names and the sums received by each The com mittee decided to hear Newell next Tues day morning

The Star Route Cases

All the arguments having been closed in the Criminal Court upon the question of the admissibility of the evidence of the witness Walsh, Judge Wylie this morn ing delivered his decision ruling its admissi bility Upon cross examination Walsh was asked if Brady had not deducted $6 741 in one quarter, imposed fines to the amount of $2 430 and suspended his pay in connec tion with his route for one entire quarter The witness believed these were the facts Witness had loaned money to Brady, and civil suits had been instituted for its recov ery

The first loan was the latter part of '78 amounting to about $3000, but the money was repaid in a few days The next loan was withi a short time Subsequent to this other loans were instanced and the witness said Brady explained them, saying he wanted to tide over a high place In some instances Brady's note was taken and in others no record whatever was made of the transaction Brady at one time told him that he preferred for obvious reasons not to take a check and he had given the amount to him in cash. Witness then de tailed the facts relative to his attachment against Brady in New York for $42,000 He stated he made an appointment for an interview in December, 1880 with Brady at Sheridan's because Brady never came to his (witness) office

Witness had taken with him to this in terview two notes, one for $12 000 and another for $13,000 and other memoranda The notes were placed upon the table at the early part of the interview Brady sat rolling the papers between his fingers as was his habit, indeed the witness had done the same Finally Brady put them in his pocket and the witness asked him where he intended to take the papers Brady an swered he must regard the matter as set tled and added that if he (witness) felt dis posed to wrestle with him in the courts, or elsewhere, he was at liberty to do so, no one had yet succeeded in that Witness said until he appeared before the grand jury he had never spoken to any one about this interview and the way in which he had lost possession of the notes He had not even told the counsel in his civil suit

The Court then adjourned till Monday with the witness still on the stand

Mr. Allison and Mr Logan pro tested against the adoption of the report as jeopardizing the four items upon which no agreement had been reached, and which they regarded as an essential feature of the bill

Y. M. C A. We notice that two hand some signs have been placed at the en trance to the Young Men's Christian Asso ciation rooms in Strickland s Block, one giving notice of their gymnasium, parlors, etc , the other of the free reading rooms Few Associations, of such recent origin as this can show such pleasant, cozy, well furnished rooms, we think the young men of our city are highly favored in hav ing such pleasant quarters to read, write, and amuse themselves. The gymnasium is, at this season of the year, used only by a few determined spirits who are resolved not to succumb to the general lassitude which prevails, and who, by a regular sys tematic course of exercise, retain that bod ily vigor so longed for during the heated term. We are informed that the Associa tion is intending to enter upon the fall and winter campaign with energy and spirit. A first-class course of lectures are contem plated, also classes in German, French, book-keeping, vocal instruction, etc , un der the charge of the first talent in the city. This is a step in the right direction, our young men need these elevating influ ences, have suffered long for the want of them, and we sincerely hope the Associa tion will be successful in their efforts.

Several lines of hose were laid but it was not found necessary to use them, and the fire was ex tinguished by pails of water. The smoke was for some time very dense, and it was with difficulty the firemen could remain in the store Miss McCann was preparing to close out her stock, and had already adver tised an auction sale to commence on Thursday next There was a large stock of millinery goods which must have been very seriously damaged by the smoke There has been an insurance on the stock, but Miss McCann was uncertain last even ing whether or no it had expired In the vicinity of eleven, another alarm sounded Many supposed it was in the same location as the early fire, and many visited that place to find themselves mistaken The fire proved to be a few miles to the west ward of the city and the sky was brightly illuminated for some time

Particulars of the Collision of the Steamer City of Portland and the Schooner E C Gates

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

CALAIS, Me , July 21

The International steamer City of Port land left Portland nearly on time Wednes day and after getting outside encountered an immense fog bank. The engines were slowed to about three quarters speed and the whistle was sounded at regular inter vals The fog continued very dense all night and every precaution was taken to avoid collision

About two A M , 16 miles east by north, 1 4 north from Matinicus, the schooner E C Gates, from Calais for Mott Haven, lumber laden, was seen dead ahead, and before the steamer could be stopped she struck the schooner a powerful blow on the port quarter, carrying away the schooner s jibboom and bowsprit, and staving in her bow The steamer's en gine was reversed and the two vessels sep arated

After a thorough examination the two captains decided that the schooner could be kept afloat until assistance could be sent from Portland The steamer re mained by the schooner for three hours, when she proceeded on her way and reached Eastport at two o clock Thursday afternoon The steamer was somewhat damaged about the bow, which was tem porarily repaired in Eastport The rev enue cutter Woodbury was sent from Port land to the Gates assistance.

Decision in Law

The following decision in law has been received by Ruel Smith, Esq , Clerk of the Eastern Law District

AROOSTOOK COUNTY CASE

Josephine Stickney and al in equity vs. Mary Stickney.

Rescript—In the bill in this case the con sideration of the conveyance from which relief is asked is alleged to have been a marriage with the defendant The evi dence shows it to have been voluntary, through in contemplation of marriage. In either case the plaintiff must fail A vol untary conveyance, in the absence of fraud or mistake, (and neither is alleged or proved), will not be set aside by a court of equity. Stover vs. Poole, 67 Me 217.

If marriage was the consideration, such marriage has been consummated, it has therefore become an executed considera tion, and cannot now be disturbed. The divorce was not a recision of the marriage contract, so as to restore the parties to their former condition, but a dissolution of the marriage relation.

If the contract was of less value to the plaintiff than he anticipated it was simply an error of judgment on his part. He took the defendant for "better or for worse." and if the worse predominated he has already had the only legal remedy known, that of divorce, and so far as appears this was at his election, certainly with his con sent.

No promises of fidelity other than such as are involved in the marriage contract, though alleged, are proved, and if they were they would not avail, for a promise though afterwards broken, is a sufficient consideration to sustain a contract.

Bill dismissed with costs.
